

TOWN OF SPRINGDALE

FEBRUARY 2023

ESTD 1862

From Mayor Bruno

THE WORK CONTINUES

I hope you've had a chance to read the Town of Springdale General Plan, updated in July of last year. One of the most important subjects in that plan is housing. We've stated a desire to retain our rural residential character by protecting existing residential neighborhoods from the impacts of increased commercialization.

One of the trends that has been troublesome is the proliferation of nightly rental properties. Those properties are not inherently a problem, but we've experienced a loss of retail space, galleries, and long-term housing as owners convert their properties.

In June of 2022, the Council adopted a new Transient Lodging Overlay Zone that added a "mixed-use" requirement, required a local manager, and limited the number of zone requests to five per calendar year. Since that time, we've received five applications and approved a total of 14 new transient lodging units. We did not see a significant increase in the amount of mixed-use on the three properties where new lodging was approved.

Zion National Park Construction Update

Work on the Zion Drainage Improvement Project is moving ahead. On Monday, January 30th, the park shifted to the final phase of the project, and drivers can expect to see different lanes open into and out of the park as construction workers move to excavate the east side of the road near the Zion south entrance.

This work is scheduled to be done in early-Spring, and it has been underway continuously since mid-November. When construction is done, there will be a total of four improved drainage culverts in the southern part of Zion National Park. This infrastructure is intended to prevent the kind of flooding that happened in June 2021.

When you drive into or out of the park, please go slowly. Watch out for construction workers and National Park Service staff who are walking in and near the road.

Be Ready for Winter Hikes

If you're headed out for hikes in Zion or elsewhere in the neighborhood, be sure to prepare for winter conditions. There are simple things to keep in mind so that you stay happy and healthy.

- Wear layers: Conditions can change quickly, and it's important to have enough clothing to stay warm when you're out recreating. If you or out-of-town guests decide to visit wet areas or hike in the Narrows, check the stream flow and ask a ranger about the water temperature before you start your hike.
- Use traction devices: Especially in the morning and evening, there can be ice on sidewalks and trails. Using traction devices on your shoes can help you keep your feet under you even on slippery surfaces.
- Check the forecast: Know what to expect before you leave the house. If conditions look like they may be hazardous, they probably will be. Consider delaying hikes to avoid especially fierce winter temperatures, snow, or other concerning weather.
- Expect the unexpected: Carrying a headlamp, an extra snack, first-aid kit, and water is in-style in every season. Keep these and other essential supplies handy in your hiking pack!

In December of 2022, following a joint meeting with the Planning Commission, the Council adopted a revision to the Transient Lodging Overlay Zone. That revision altered the timeline so the Town accepts new applications in even-numbered years only. We will not accept any applications in the calendar year 2023, which gives us time to further revise or replace the Transient Lodging ordinance. We hope to create a scenario where non-lodging uses can better compete economically with lodging uses. In keeping with the General Plan, we also hope to preserve existing non-lodging uses (especially residential uses on properties in the commercial zones).

We have formed a working group consisting of two staff members, two council members, and two planning commissioners. We held our first meeting in January and will continue to meet at least once a month until a new ordinance is crafted. Please send me any ideas or feedback, and I'll bring that information to the group.

Thanks for your patience as we work through this tricky issue.

A Focus on Renewable Energy

Catch-up with the Utah 100 Communities, a.k.a. the Community Renewable Energy Agency, by reading the January 2023 newsletter at <https://www.utah100communities.org/subscribe>. In this month's edition, learn more about the cost projection of the program, efforts to support energy affordability for lower-income households, model ordinance language and the agency's anticipated participation in the Intermountain Sustainability Summit.

Utah 100 Communities is working to develop new renewable energy resources to serve our communities so that by 2030, the amount of electricity we use annually will be matched by renewable generation. The Town of Springdale is one of 18 communities participating in this first of its kind effort.

Town Hall Construction

The Town Hall is under construction. This project will allow Town staff to provide you with better service by separating utility billing and general services from community development. The project is estimated to be completed in mid-June. Please pardon the inconvenience of construction as you visit Town Hall in the next few months.

Beginning February 10th and for the next two weeks, access to the front desk lobby area of Town Hall will only be available from the rear of the building. Signage will help you navigate to the rear entrance. Also, keep in mind that many services are available online at www.springdaletown.com which could save you a trip to Town Hall altogether.

We appreciate your patience and understanding during this construction period.
