

TOWN OF SPRINGDALE

FEBRUARY 2024

ESTD 1862

From Mayor Bruno

Council Assignments

Did you know that the members of Springdale Town Council have specific assignments outside of Council meetings? Every year at the January meeting, we approve the list of Department / Committee Liaisons. With two new Council members this year, we re-worked the list pretty extensively. Here's the list for 2024:

Randy Aton

Mayor Pro Tempore
Public Works Department (Utilities and Streets)
Hurricane Valley Fire District Board
Irrigation Advisory Board
Utah Renewable Energy Committee

Barbara Bruno

Administration (Town Manager, Clerk and Treasurer)
Public Safety
Parking
Irrigation Advisory Board
ULCT Legislative Policy Committee
Washington County Council on Aging
Zion Regional Collaborative

Jack Burns

Parks and Recreation Department (Canyon Community Center, Parks, Trails, Events, Cemetery)
Art Review Board
Community Health Coalition
Washington County Arts Council
Washington County Solid Waste Board
Zion Regional Collaborative

2 Cents is Going on Tour!

Building on the success of our "2 Cents" events at the community center, the Community Development Department is taking a tour of Springdale! We will be coming to meet you at three different locations in the community. We want to hear from you about the issues that are important to you in your neighborhood. Come join us at a location near you, and let us have your two cents on all things planning, zoning, and development. We'll be setting up shop at:

- The Chinle Trailhead parking lot (off Anasazi Way) on Tuesday, February 27th at 12 noon.
- The George A Barker River Park on Wednesday, February 28th at 12 noon.
- The future Town Plaza site on Zion Park Blvd (the lot between the Best Western and Zion Prospector) on Thursday, February 29th, at 12 noon.

We look forward to hearing your ideas and suggestions at our Two Cents World Tour!

Springdale Volleyball: A Legacy of Teamwork!

This month Town staff will be working with volunteers to make several improvements to the sand volleyball courts at the Town Park. These new additions will include new poles with adjustable net heights, new nets, and a retaining wall to keep sand in while providing seating for spectators. The Springdale volleyball courts have been a staple of the local recreation scene for the past several decades. Because of its scenic location among the red cliffs, unique blow sand that is amazing to play on (one-of-a-kind), and a welcoming atmosphere from the regular local players, it has remained one of the stand-out features of the Town Park. The story of the volleyball court has deep roots and goes back almost 30 years. Local players like Don Hall, Jeff Sky, Steve Sandstrom, Shawn Welborn, Lin Alder, Joey Jennings and others were looking for a place to play as the court at the Bit and Spur was closing down. The Town offered them a small piece of land next to the tennis courts that consisted of little more than sage brush and sandstone boulders. With the deeply discounted help of Allen Lee, the players pulled together their own funds and began the work of transforming that raw piece of property into a quality volleyball venue. Large cast iron posts were brought up from the shipping yards at San Pedro Harbor and were planted into the ground as poles for the nets, dirt was brought in to provide a suitable surface to play on, and for years the players poured in their own time and money to maintain the courts and buy the needed supplies. Over time, the courts began seeing more use and left many in admiration not only because of the scenery of the towering canyon walls, but because of the success and spirit of the grassroot efforts in creating such a gem. In 2001, editor to the national publication Volleyball Magazine Jon Hastings was on a family trip to Zion National Park and heard about the courts. He decided to check it out and it left an impression. In the August 2001 edition of Volleyball Magazine, Jon wrote an article in which he exclaimed:

"We found two well-maintained courts with tight nets...We played a doubles game and delighted in the composition of the sand, which made it easy to jump. We enjoyed the setting so much we vowed to return the next evening. When we did, we stumbled on a regular Tuesday evening crowd... I didn't need to invoke my special media status to get involved. The locals, including the one who had told us about the courts, welcomed us into their games. My son and I tested our polarized skills against the locals, battling a red rock backdrop amidst genuine camaraderie... There is now a volleyball in my garage that has been to Springdale, a hamlet that symbolizes the sport is flourishing and is part of people's lives all over."

In 2007, Mayor Pat Cluff and the Town Council saw the incredible work that the players had put into the courts and agreed to contribute Town funding for the maintenance and upkeep of the facilities. Currently, Town staff continues to work with the local volleyball cohort to keep the Town Park a great place to play some sand volleyball. We are grateful to those who give of their own time and resources to make Springdale a great place to live, work and play.
